

To Whom It May Concern,

Hello, I hope this correspondence finds you all well. I am writing regarding the hearings on cell phone and micro wave radiations. I am a person living with EHS (Electromagnetic Hypersensitivity). I have been living with it for the past two and a half years. It has completely turned my life upside down. Right now, typing this on the computer is causing me great discomfort, but I feel it is important to weigh on this subject.

I was an ordinary person totally engaged in cell phone and wireless technology. I am not a "gadget phobe". However, since this condition has taken root in my life I am unable to participate in a normal life. I cannot talk on the phone (even a landline) for over 15 minutes without great discomfort even pain. I cannot watch TV, be on the computer, go to the movies or even ride in a late model car for any distance.

My symptoms are varied as with all sensitive people no two are alike, but we all share in the inability to function fully around electronic devices. I also have a sensitivity to light, which hinders me further.

While I am retired, I need to work to supplement my very minimal social security.

There is not much I can do that does not involve computers, phones, lights and WIFI.

My symptoms include; light sensitivity, headaches, rapid heartbeat, a terrible burning under the skin, Tinnitus, sometimes fatigue, Anxiety, Insomnia and digestive problems.

While I know I am in a minority group, I believe we are the canaries in the cold mine. As we get more and more dependent on electronics, I believe there will be more people who will go through this.

Please look very carefully into the effects from a short and long range perspective.

Thank you for your consideration.

Loretta Greene, LMFT
