

Name: Matt Huck

Year born: 1981

Profession: Unemployed due to cell phones

Age when experiencing symptoms: My health crashed completely when I was 31 years, 4 months, and 27 day old even though I believe, after looking at my medical records, that I showed signs up to six years prior to my health crash in 2012.

Types of Injury: Electromagnetic Sensitivity, Tumors and Cancer.

Other: I believe we should stress that it is called "Microwave Sickness" since it's been called this since 1932 by the German's.

To which wireless device do you attribute your condition?

Cell phone, cell tower/antenna, Wireless Smart Meter, WiFi. Most cell phones and cell towers give me the most problems but I have had a few issues with Wi-Fi in some locations. As far as smart meters, as of right now, I am not sure. I do spend time in proximities of smart meters however I am also in urban environments saturated in other wireless "radiation". More details later in the smart meter section.

What symptoms do you experience when you are exposed to radiation? The symptoms I experience frequently when I am around wireless "radiation", "radiation" induced headaches/migraines, pressure in the head, nose bleeds, ringing in the ears/tinnitus, memory loss/brain fog, dizziness/vertigo, insomnia, heighten sense of smell or MCS, chest pressure or difficulty breathing, fatigue and paralysis/tingling in extremities. When I have been heavily saturated in wireless "radiation" these symptoms may occur: rush of blood to the head and/or leakage into the blood-brain barrier, light sensitivities, concentration, patience & aggressiveness, fear & anxiety, irregular heart beat & heart issues, high blood pressure, appetite irregularities, dehydration, abdominal pain, internal bleeding and muscle and/or joint pain or even muscle spasms.

How has becoming injured by wireless affected your life? (Your family, living situation, education, job and finance). Once my health crashed in 2012, about half a mile to a mile outside of the city I worked in I could feel the city's cell towers. This caused me to turn in my resignation as a department manager of a big Midwest home improvement store. Forcing me to move in with my mother where the meter readings were below 3.7 mV/m. I spent about a month recovering and detoxing there. I was able to regain part-time employment and then full-time only to be let go in April 2015. Since then I have applied for jobs that I felt I would be able to handle only to be told that they would not hire me due to my sensitivities even though I was a strong candidate for the position. What hurts the most out of this whole thing is that we are being discriminated against and we are targeted for hate crimes just because we cannot handle the wireless technology. I felt this was wrong so August 2016, I started plans to create an organization called "Truth & Facts Never Lie". We all should feel safe in the environment we live in on a daily basis.

How has becoming injured by wireless affected your ability to function in society?

That my life is "hell" and I never would wish this upon anyone. A better way of expressing what "microwave sickness" is that "it is identical to being married to the worst person in the world! You cannot divorce them but yet you have to bow down to their every need. Having to put their needs before your own, in other words you have become a slave and they are your master". You cannot go to many social or even family events because of the wireless devices. The few you do go to you run the risk of creating significant harm to you and your health that you will pay for a few days after the event. You have to plan routes so you can avoid cell towers, antennas, heavy saturations of wireless "radiation" or areas that create harm. You no longer can function as a normal human being. You are force to become an outsider an to live like a hermit.

How did you make the connection between the symptoms you were experiencing and the wireless radiation? Once my health crashed in 2012, I was starting to feel things around me differently. When I was near some cell towers, I would notice that I didn't feel normal. Some of them right away, others it would occur a day or two later. I also began starting to feel the "radiation" induced headache. Mother and I, during these two years, would begin finding out that each location, each tower, each cell phone would not have the same effect on us. I got rid of my cell phone later that year and shortly after doing so, was relieved that I did not have it. Cell phone addiction is real and even though I used it sparingly I did go through symptoms of "where is my phone?" "Did someone leave me a text message?" It was hard to believe, for me at the time but the cell phone actually was starting to dictate and control my life.

Do you have a wireless utility meter and if so how did it affect your life? Depends at which parents place I am at. My mother has a Powerline Carrier (PC). According to my mother, it's like wireless just over powerlines. My Father's trailer, where I utilize internet service, I personally have not physically inspected them but the meter readings are really high in this trailer. I try to quickly get what I need done on the internet so I can head back to my father's other trailer where the readings are much lower. In fact, the highest reading there is close to the lowest reading at the trailer I utilize for the internet. We don't move the internet because we already know that it is hard-wired in and I don't want to risk losing the safety by relocation I know that this trailer looks like it has a smart meter. I sleep on the sofa in the living room which is the lowest meter reading is the farthest I can get from them since they are located near the back of the trailer.

What else would you like to tell the public and public officials? We need to start waking up. It's a matter of time before your health will be drastically changed by wireless "radiation" It may not be you personally but someone you know. We need to stop this onslaught of untested wireless devices upon the public. The mad rush to get everyone wireless technology without taking into account health effects from multiple radio frequencies is utterly a page from the Gestapo's playbook. I know people love their wireless gadgets but for them, let them live in areas saturate in wireless radiation. Provide location that are completely of the wireless grid. People can still be technologically advance without wireless.
