The studies listed in the National Institute of Health, Science.gov and World Health Organization are too many to list so I am just sharing a few links:

International standards and examples

https://ehtrust.org/policy/international-policy-actions-on-wireless/

A Rationale for Biologically-based Public Exposure Standards for Electromagnetic Fields (ELF and RF)

https://bioinitiative.org/

U.S. policy on wireless technologies and public health protection: regulatory gaps and proposed reforms

https://pubmed.ncbi.nlm.nih.gov/41487623/