I first experienced an installation of an antenna in the village where I lived and without knowing anything about the subject, started to lose my sleep very fast (over 1 month's time) to the point where I was unable to sleep more than 1 hour per night. I was invited by a friend of mine to go into the forest and my sleep came back very fast and when I returned to the area, it because obvious there was a disruption happening near the area where the new antenna installation happened. At that time, I was in very good health and this was the first thing happening to me. I had to leave the area and went to see doctors to understand what had happened to me, to understand why my heart was racing anytime I went near the antenna. I had to leave my house and went back to France and experienced the same phenomenon but significantly less strong as the antennae there are significantly less strong. I would live perfectly well protected from that radiation and totally disturbed in my nervous system, in my sleep, and it increased over time. Eventually I became unable to visit my family that lived in the city. I encountered professors and researchers in this field that helped me discover what I can do to make a difference in my symptoms; grounding, protection and protective devices. The researchers showed me what was the effect of the 2G, 3G at that time on the cells in the body. I took supplements but my life became very difficult for my work and for traveling. I ended up going to the mountains of Mexico where there were no towers at all, and was finally able to observe a significant difference and be able to experience a nervous system "rest" and reset. Now after living the US for nine years, we bought our property in order to be far as possible from any cell tower but my health is in real danger as the technology grid marches on, the only thing that seems to help tis to live in nature far from those towers completely remote. I see a big difference when I go into a cave, or near a large body of water, My life and the life of my partner has become that of a refugee, trying to find remote places, protective materials, and underground shelters to try to be able to protect my health effects as much as possible. I sleep in a faraday tent with grounded mat, I cannot go more than 30 minuts into the city to do groceries because it blocks my spine, my back and neck, and freezes the circulation that the blood flow does not reach the brain anymore. It seems that the us is like Australia much stronger than Europe and researching, I know that there are less restrictive RF limits here. My doctors would not use the term hypersensitive but hyper allergic, it has affected my nervous system and also my digestive system, and whenever I leave the microwave radiation, my body comes back to balance.I never use WiFi and I can observe in my body if there is a Wifi signal present after just 3minutes, when I use a computer I use cabled ethernet connection. I would bite my tongue and literally be paralyzed from my nervous system and my back. When I would leave these areas, the intelligence of the body would kick in and reset back to normal. Therei an intelligence of the body that recuperate although now the skies and cities are becoming more and more electromagnetic. I have had to leave my house remove myself from the area entirely more than 9 or 10 times.plus with the psychology what it creates psychologically to have this problem because not many people talk about it , the inflammation that it creates in the brain, and the fafct that whatever happens one canot even go to the hospital, because that would kill me even more than just staying home, I canot tgo there to be in a space like that even just for 1 hour because I will collapse; I have many more stories that I can share, but I hipe my thoughts can bring some eeper thoughts from the people that really suffer from that, because it’s a hell of a life. We sbould have places on this planet that respect people and everybody have a home, everybody need sto have theur home not likve like a rat in that situation. We should have words to stay and places to protect those people.

Wheni arrive in the us 2 years later and I have a very good diet, did a thermal imaging test and the level of inflammation in my body was extreme, the person said that she has rarely seen inflammamtion like that, and I am a person that eats a very good diet since decades, I know what is good for my body and I know what causes damage to my body.

We need protected spaces for the people that live a life of suffering in deep pain to the point where you don’t want to live anymore from technology like this, that you don’t even think you have a place to live your life on this planet as your home anymore

Thank you very much,

After some testing, we have seen that the myelin sheath of the nerves was degrading.
